Determined U.S. Planes Fail to to Keep Open Supply Lines Slow Enemy Offense

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) - North Vietnam's determination to defend its supply routes to the south is posing the most serious threat to U.S. planes since President Lyndon B. Johnson's bombing halt more than three years ago.

As American bombers increase their attacks during the current dry season, they are running into increased attacks from North Vietnamese missiles, antiaircraft guns and MIG jets.

Most of the action is concentrated around four key passes on the North Vietnam-Laos border. These are-from north to south-the Barthelemy pass on Highway 7, feeding supplies to the Communist troops in northern Laos, and the Mu Gia, Ban Karai and Ban Raving passes through which war material enter the Ho Chi Minh trail.

"There has been a general strengthening of antiaircraft defenses, and some of the areas not previously considered a high threat are now a high threat," says one Air Force officer. "The North Vietnamese have 23, 37 and 100mm guns. They are highy mobile, and they move in and out in an changing pattern. This makes hitting them difficult."

The U.S. Command has admitted nearly 100 American air attacks inside North Vietnam this year, terming them "protective reaction" exercising the "inherent right of self-defense" in response to North Vietnamese attack or radar indications that an attack is about to be

The protective reaction policy was laid down in November 1968 for the protection of the reconnaissance flights that President Johnson said would continue over North Vietnam. Hanoi said it would not tolerate U.S. flights over its territory and claimed the "inalienable right to pursue and shoot down U.S. planes of any type if they violate our air space."

For nearly two years, all American air strikes in North Vietnam were made against antiaircraft batteries that fired on U.S. planes or gave radar indication that they were preparing to fire. But a little more than a year ago, as the withdrawal of U.S. ground forces continued, the Nixon administration expanded the targets of protective reaction strikes to include fuel and supply depots and truck pars, with some of the raids planned in advance and carried out by as many as 250 planes.

The two leaders met for five hours Monday, 90 minutes longer than scheduled, in a drawing room of the hilltop Governor's House overlooking the Atlantic.

The initial session carried philosophical and ideological overtones, officials indicated, while the concluding two meetings today were to focus on such specifics as how to complete the rebuilding of the inter-

British officials disagree with the American suggestion that India had planned to invade West Pakistan. But both sides agreed Monday to work together on moves to rush aid, preferably through the United Nations, to ease the suffering of

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) - Television viewers find this a crazy, mixed-up week on the networks. Many series programs are repeats, and an extraordinary number of special programs and news documentaries are preempting regular series.

The reason: The Nielsen research organization, whose reports on audience size and composition are the industry's most widely used yardsticks, is taking a week off, as it does four or five times a year.

With Nielsen skipping its audience estimates-and with people presumed to be preoccupied with holiday preparations-the networks find it convenient to slip in reruns. The three networks scheduled 20 between Monday night and Christmas Eve.

Documentaries and news department specials frequently attract smaller audiences than do entertainment shows. So inclusion of some this week will not hurt a network's position in the tight three-network ratings race currently in progress.

The practice, however, has resulted in an unfortunate pile up of specials and documentaries tonight.

Meanwhile, the Nielsen report for the week ending Dec. 12 shows CBS's "All in the Miss Irvin is a Sophomore at Family" still the nation's most popular program, followed by a Bob Hope variety hour on NBC, ployed by the International and CBS's repeat of the cartoon

THE GENERATION RAP

Dear Sue And Helen: I am 17, Bo is 19. We went together six months and everything seemed perfect. I really thought it was love. He's the type who always KNOWS he's right, so I tried every way to change so I'd be just the way he wants a girl. I thought I succeeded. We never fought.

But suddenly he decided we shouldn't see each other so much because his parents "were hassling him." He suggested that we cool it for a month.

Two days later I saw him with another girl, and after that he was always with this girl.

Finally I decided to have it out so I asked him if it was all over. He said, "Yes," but not because of the girl. In the time he hadn't seen me, he said, he looked at "us" with an open mind and realized we were so different in thoughts. ideals backgrounds that we'd never make it. But he still loves me, he added.

I have a lot of love invested in him and the way I feel now, I'll always have. But when his mind is made up, no one can change it, and he's so darn sure he's always right! Is he this time? -

Sue's Views Dear Hurting:

More and more guys, it seems,

I'm glad you wrote this letter (though I'm sorry you're hurting) because it gives me a chance at a bit of advice: Girls. don't change for your guy so you'll be like him. He doesn't really want that, because then he sees in you a reflection of himself. What a bore!

And guys: Say what you mean! A clean break heals faster. --

Helen's Answer Dear Hurting:

I don't think much of a fellow who leaves a relationship hanging when it's already dead. And when he's "always right" to boot-well, you'll soon realize how wrong he was for you. (Say in about a month, or maybe less if you make the clean break yourself.) -HELEN Dear Sue And Helen:

I broke my wrist roller-skating down a steep hill. I got my cast off three weeks ago but now I'm scared stiff of even the smallest hill. Will I ever get over it? -J.M. Dear J:

Yes! But only if you think of that fear as a challenge. And try the baby hills first. --SUE Dear J:

Bellard went to the University of Texas as a linebacker coach in 1967 and the following year took over the offensive backfield, when the Longhorns shifted to the Wishbone-T.

In announcing the hiring of Bellard, Williams said an official group from A&M started looking for a head coach and consulted with former Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson in making the selection.

Bellard said he would continue to use the Wishbone-T offense at A&M.

UCLA Clings to Top in College Poll

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer

It's still UCLA all alone on top of the college basketball world, although Marquette is starting to bring the beefy Bruins down to earth.

UCLA, as it has all along, continued merrily as the nation's No. 1 team today. But second-ranked Marquette has cut into the Bruin's enormous, 190-point lead of last week.

A nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters gave UCLA 34 first-place votes and 842 points even though the front-runners were idle last week.

The Warriors, meanwhile, had to work for their marks with an 87-68 beating of Fordham and were given eight firstplace ballots for 754 points.

While Marquette trimmed the giant margin down to 88 points. South Carolina kept a tenuous lead over North Carolina in their hot battle for third place.

Third-ranked South Carolina claimed 563 points after beating Virginia Tech 77-76 and held only a six-point lead over fastclosing North Carolina (557), which beat Wake Forest 99-76 and North Carolina State 99-68 to win the Big Four Tournament over the weekend.

North Carolina got the only other first-place vote.

Southern California and Ohio State, tied for 10th last week, made big strides after successes. The Trojans moved to No. 5 after winning the Jayhawk Classic in Kansas and Ohic State shot to sixth after bouncing Butler 82-70.

Brigham Young, No. 6 last week, skidded to No. 7, Indiana and Long Beach State moved into the Nos. 8 and No. 9 spots after overwhelming victories and St. John's, N.Y., eighth last week, fell to tenth.

Kentucky, No. 7 last week, dropped to No. 11, while Southwestern Louisiana moved up four spots to No. 12.

Penn, a 57-52 upset victim to Temple Saturday, plunged eight spots to No. 13 and Florida State, which lost a bizarre 30-10 affair to Hawaii, dropped five spots to No. 14.

The rest of the Top Twenty includes: Maryland, No. 15; Jacksonville, No. 16; Ohio University, No. 17; Virginia, No. 18: Louisville, No. 19 and Marshall, No. 20.

The top 20 with first place votes in parentheses, won-lost records through Saturday night and total points on the basis of 20 for first, 18 for second, 16, 14, 12, 10,9,8, etc. through 15 places:

Westphal Is Rated Best in College

By BERT ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Sports Writer "Paul Westphal is already the most complete player I have ever coached," Southern California basketball Coach Bob Boyd said recently.

Westphal upheld his coach's praise Monday night, scoring 30 points and leading the fifthranked Trojans to an 89-86 victory over stubborn Iowa State.

Westphal often has been compared to National Basketball Association star Jerry West of the Los Angeles Lakers, but he says, "It's something that would be very difficult to live up to because he's the best. I've learned a lot just by watching him."

Southern Cal, with Westphal firing in 20 points, raced to a 49-36 halftime advantage and built its lead to 17 points in the first two minutes of the second half. However, Iowa State battied back and went ahead 83-82 with 5:08 remaining.

Then, Westphal hit a free throw with 2:28 left, putting the Trojans ahead 85-84, and 43 seconds later, he connected on a jump shot, making it 87-84.

Joe Mackey chipped in with 26 points and Ron Riley added 19, including two foul shots with 13 seconds remaining, as the Trojans won their sixth straight game following an opening loss.

Meanwhile, sixth-rated Ohio State boosted its record to 5-1, holding off Brown 62-56. Sevenfoot Luke Witte topped the Buckeyes with 16 points, while sophomore Wardell Jackson came off the bench in the second half to score 13 points.

Maryland, ranked 15th, overcame an early 10-point deficit and defeated Baltimore Loyola 73-60 for its fifth victory in six games, the Terrapins' heralded 6-foot-11 sophomore, Tom McMillen, was held to one field goal and seven points.

Michigan upset the No. 17 team, Ohio University, 87-81, in the first round of the Michigan Invitational Tournament but it may have been a costly triumph. Henry Wilmore, who scored 22 points, injured his knee late in the first half and was carried off the court. He will undergo X-rays today to determine the extent of the in-

Undefeated Virginia, ranked 18th, routed Virginia Military 93-51 in the first game of the Roanoke Classic, before Virginia Tech swamped Richmond 82-54. Virginia, in winning its sixth game, surged to a 51-16 halftime lead as VMI hit only five of 30 shots. Marshall, also unbeaten and

Lakers May Tie All-Time Record

surpassed virtually every professional record for consecutive victories, the Los Angeles Lakers move into Buffalo tonight for a game with the Braves, hunting for their 26th straight. triumph

Should they win-and they rate heavy favorites against a team which is eight games below .500-the Lakers would tie the all-time pro record for consecutive wins.

That mark was set back in 1916 by the New York Giants' baseball team. And what then? Well, the Lakers might next shoot for the Los Angeles city record of victories in a row, that being 47 by the UCLA squad of a couple of years ago. And of course, University of San Francisco once won 60 in a row and Close behind in the poll to select the country's top 10 drivers based on this year's performance were veteran fuel dragster pilot Don Garlits, Grand National stock car champion Richard Petty and George Follmer of Arcadia, Calif.

They were joined on the All-America rolls by USAC national champion Joe Leonard, pro stock drag race star; Ronnie Sox, late model stock car racers Bobby Allison and Ray Elder, Can-Am champion Peter Revson and off-road specialist Parnelli Jones.

Donohue, Petty, Garlits, Sox and Jones were repeaters from last year's team.

Blood Sugar Levels Fluctuate

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Hypoglycemia, or low blood sugar, really is not a diagnosis. It is a finding, as is fever, headache, fatigue and many other problems we deal with in medicine. The level of blood sugar fluctuates in everybody. It is kept within narrow limits by very complex system. In the simplest terms, the blood sugar goes up from eating carbohydrates containing glucose. Sugar is a good example. The glucose is ab-

Another way the blood sugar can be raised is by the action of the liver in converting proteins and fats to glucose and dumping the glucose into the blood stream. The liver is a very important organ in controlling the level of the blood sugar. If Camellias, shrubbery, pecan, it is damaged it may lose its shade trees, pottery, and ability to control the blood birdbaths. Phone: 777-3543, sugar level. Severe liver damage can cause a drop in the blood sugar with severe problems including coma and death. On the other side of the picture the blood sugar is 81. Musical Instruments glucose from the blood and using it in the muscles or other tissues or storing it in the form of fat tissue or other carbohydrate forms in muscle tissue. The use of glucose by the body tissues or its storage is dependent upon insulin, the hormone formed by small specialized areas of tissue within the pancreas.

In a diabetic who doesn't produce enough insulin. there is a defect in utilizing glucose in this manner and the blood sugar rises abnormally. The condition is helped by giving insulin. Too much insulin can cause a rapid removal of glucose from the bloodstream and hypoglycemia follows. This KC REGISTERED CHOW-CHOW, Chihuahua, Boston nervousness, fast heart and sweating

Rarely too much insulin is produced by a tumor of the insulin producing tissue in the pancreas, but these are rare and the common causes of hypoglycemia are from other factors.

The blood sugar can also be lowered if too much glucose is lost in the urine. Hypoglycemia is almost never caused this way. It is true that if you damage part of the function of the kidney you can cause it, but this is a nice laboratory experiment in animals that seldom occurs in real life.

The level of the blood sugar is affected by many secondary factors that, in turn, influence absorption of glucose from the digestive tract or affect the liver function or the formation of insulin-The small pituitary gland under the brain can have an abnormality that affects the blood sugar, or the adrenal gland may have an abnormality that affects the level of blood sugar. If the blood sugar rises abruptly this will stimulate the production of insulin to lower the blood

sugar Even sex hormones

affect the level of blood sugar indirectly. All of these effects though are accomplished through influencing the absorption of blood sugar from the digestive tract, the production of insulin, the function of the liver, or the body's use of sugar.

Patients With No Relatives Dear Mrs. Taylor:

"The patients and hospital staff join with me in expressing sincere appreciation to you and the other members of your organization for your contribution of beautifully wrapped gifts for a special group of patients who have no relatives to remember them at Christmas.

'We are very fortunate to have interested friends over the state such as those in your group, and your thoughtfulness and generosity is greatly appreciated.

"Please let your other members know how much their kindness means to the hospitalized veterans." Sincerely yours,

Says Year-Round Santa Needed

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) -A Santa Claus at a department store says there's a need for someone adults can talk to year-round, like a Santa Claus.

"There are a lot of people who would really like to talk," said Santa Claus at Hirde's, commenting as he sat in his green, gilt chair flanked by tubs of candy suckers.

He said many who come up just to talk are adults.

"There are people who come up and say, 'God, it's terrible at home. What should I do?' I had some person come by and talk about her divorce-and guys with problems about their girl friends," Santa said, he declined to give his name because it might jeopardize a job he has after Christmas.

He said other adults just like to talk about the weather or the

"It would really be great if we could institute this on a year-around basis and give the people someone they could really talk to, not a shrink or anything having a heavy connotation," he said.

Santa Claus, who is 27 and says he has a university degree in history, said he may present the idea at a Berkeley City Council meeting.
